STAR'S LIGHT AGAIN ON HAIDEE WRIGHT

Actress Does Distinguished Work in "The Melody of Love," by Tynan.

Haidee Wright has done it again. It is the customary thing, of course. She has carried off the honors of a perform evening in the tapestry suite at Sherry's ance from everybody else in the cast, just as she did in "Evidence" and in "The Two Virtues." Miss Wright has a habit, through the splendid distincted people, debutantes of the season and ness and certainty of her acting, of making herself the principal figure of every scene in which she appears, whatever man. Mr. and Mrs. James Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Bedle, Mr. and Mrs. George Kline, Mr. and Mrs. James Perry, Love." Now it is "The Melody of He is also acting the leading role.

George Tyler, in association with James K. Hackett, is the manager of the new play. It is an idyllic Irish comedy in which a young man about to begin his studies for the priesthood finds on the sudden death of his father that he has been left guardian of his ward, who is of about the same age as he. Then the young man gives up his ideas of the clergy and devotes his time to taming the recalcitrant young woman taming the recalcitrant young woman. For she is a rebellious and frivolous person at first. In order to get her away from the temptations of the city he takes her to dwell in the country with only his maiden aunt to chaperon them.

There of course the young woman, played by Lily Cahill, is tamed, and there is happiness for all, Haidee Wright plays the aunt and as usual won most of the applause of the audience, although the whole event of the experiment was propitious. The play will soon be seen here.

Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. Bradish Johnson, Mrs. Pierre Mall, Mrs. Hiram W. Sibley, Mrs. Henry E. Coe, Mrs. Charles M. Chapin and Mrs. Walter G. Oakman, nearly all of whom gave dinners in advance of the dance.

These dances, which have proved very successful, will be resumed next winter. Percy R. Pyne 2d gave a small dance last night at Delmonico's, his guests, about 100 in number, coming from dinners given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Taylor Pyne, and by his cousin, Grafton H. Pyne, and Mrs. Pyne at their respective homes. There were features about the decorations suggestive of military life, and in the ballroom a canvas tent was rigged up, under which the dancing took place.

The inside of the tent was festooned with bright colored bunting and around its stiles were hung shields, battle axes.

It is interesting to read the following announcement issued yesterday by the Vitagraph Company in view of the acquisition of its theatre by James K. Hackett:

"PRINCE IGOR" REPEATED. Borodin's Opera Heard by Good Sized Audience.

Alexander Borodin's opera, "Prince Igor," was heard once again at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening. The audience was of good size and the work appeared to interest most of its hearers. The cast was the same as heretofore, and the salient features of the representation passed in review in their now accustomed manner. There are no brilliant opportunities for charac-terization, but those which occur are excellently used. # SAYS MARTIN DID NOT LIVE IN PARIS

State Comptroller Seeks Transfer Tax Here on $500,-000 Estate.

TRUST COMPANY OPPOSES

Surrogate Fowler heard argument yesterday on the application of State Comptroller Travis to declare the late Frederick Townsend Martin a resident of New York city in order that his estate of about $500,000 may be subject to a transfer tax here. The Metropolitan Trust Company, executor under Mr. Martin's will, contends that he had aban-Martin's will, contends that he had abandoned his New York residence many years ago and until his death in 1913 made his home in Paris and London.

John B. Gleason, representing the Comptroller, offered many extracts from Mr. Martin's books, "The Passing of the Idle Rich" and "Things I Remember." to prove that he prided himself on being a resident of New York city and "solded" other Americans who expatriated themselves. He insisted that for some years before his death Mr. Martin regarded the Plaza Hotel as his home.

Mr. Gleason pointed out that Mr. Mar-tin's friend Henry M. Sands, with whom tin's friend Henry M. Sands, with whom he shared an apartment on the Avenue Gabriel, in Paris for many years and who died not long before him, was declared a resident of New York State by Surrogate Ketcham in Brooklyn under practically the same facts.

Mr. Gleason dwelt on Mr. Martin's pride in calling himself a New Yorker, and said: "I lay it only to the marble heart of the trust company as executor, which in furtherance of its duty has found it necessary to question the patriotism and Americanism of Mr. Martin."

John B. Pine, attorney for the Martin John B. Pine, attorney for the Martin estate, argued that there is nothing in Mr. Martin's writings applying to the question of his residence except a line which shows that he recarded Paris as his home. This line said: "I love my apartment in the Avenue Gabriel, where I have enshrined my lares and persates." "To a Roman that would have meant a home," commented Surrogate Fowler, "but I don't believe Mr. Martin was a Roman."

Mr. Pine said that Mr. Martin moved his residence from New York to Paris twenty-five years ago and that there is no evidence that he ever reestablished it in New York.

Surrogate Fowler said that in these days of extensive travelling by New Yorkers the question is too important to be decided without thorough consid-eration of the law and the facts.
